

Kamala Harris asserts: "Equitable treatment means we all end up at the same place."

What are people saying in response?

Nice idea, but the person still has to climb the rope. According to critical race theory and social justice warriors, if the POC refuses to climb the rope, it's white people making the rope that is the problem.

@cauffca

Practitioner of Critical Poverty Theory. Outcome has nothing to do with the color of your skin, and everything to do with opportunity and personal choices.

Equity through government force inevitably puts one group at a disadvantage to another to social engineer outcomes. That's not fair or equitable. @EricElectrons

Also, are we going to ignore the elephant in the room? The clip puts the dark-skinned person beneath the white person at a starting point. It assumes always. Doesn't that insult you? The assumption that you need handouts simply because of your skin colour? @emmyjewel

Do the staffers who posted this understand its implications? Do they realize that equality of opportunity won't produce equality of outcomes? E.g. there are vast differences in talents. Achieving "equity" would require large-scale state leveling a la Khmer Rouge or Cultural Rev. @truthtobugmen

This is a pretty in-your-face endorsement of equality of outcomes as a policy goal. (As opposed to equality of opportunity.) @ZPostFacto

"Equitable treatment means we all end up in the same place." That's equality of outcomes enforced by the government. They used to call that communism. @sullydish

"A society that puts equality—in the sense of equality-of-outcome—ahead of freedom will end up with neither equality nor freedom." @stooptorise

"Equitable treatment means we all end up at the same place." This, historically, has meant that everyone (but for party elites) has the same incredibly low standard of living. That impoverished life comes with a heaping side of death, destruction, & totalitarianism. @ratlpolicy

Communism pushes people down for equality. It raises no one up. @bpjauburn

Even if you "gave" people the same amount (which is not the role of gov't to "give" to people) and they "started at the same level" because everyone is different, they would consume at different levels, they would still have different abilities. @nickaramaOG

A more accurate video would show them shoving the person down to the lower level and both of them being just as bad off. @flyingkulau

They have to show you a cartoon because this doesn't work in real life. ...it's been tried and failed across dozens of communist countries. @lansdellBilly

So no athlete should be allowed to run faster than a 1-legged man with cerebral palsy. Is your child incredibly gifted? Too bad. They'll have to languish in the Special Ed class, since mentally challenged students have no hope of "ending up at the same place" as a gifted student. @malamodiamanto

A free people are not equal. An equal people are not free. @reddotaustintx

Not possible. Because with that mentality that's the best you will ever be. The challenge is the journey. Many people prefer the journey over the outcome. It's called freedom. It's why we don't all have the same story. @christine77373

Can someone explain how this would apply to a real world example like basketball? How do I get on equal footing, then end up at the same place as LeBron James? How about acting? How do I end up at the same place as Leonardo DiCaprio? Every vertical has leaders. Period. @agoracom

Three runners all trained the same, same meals, same housing.... All line up on race day.... Someone will win, and the others will lose. This is life, and cannot be avoided. Making everyone's outcome the same no matter what is communism....and it doesn't work! @GrahamAllen_1

Equitable does not mean we end up at the same place. Equitable means we are given the opportunities to Start at the same place. Where we end up is entirely up to the individual.

Real equality means equality of opportunities, while everyone has a different outcome. Anyone try to ensure equality of outcomes is not equality, and it can only be achieved through authoritarian and discrimination. AlvinCYT

The laws of life and nature do not conform to these unrealistic standards of "equity". Some people are just born naturally smarter, stronger, taller, and more capable than others. That's just a fact of life. It is unrealistic and unnatural to think that you can force equality... Equality doesn't mean that because of that you don't have the same opportunity to succeed in life. It just means that everyone has to approach the game from a different position in order to reach their desired goal. You get to choose how you go about using your path in all of your flaws and attributes without any sort of external hindrance that gives you an artificially unfair advantage over others. It allows you the opportunity to discover your strengths by working through your weaknesses. In other words... it's how we've always advanced as a society. Now go and take your commie, Marxist, social engineering propaganda somewhere else. It obviously isn't welcome here... Joe Boyko

"Equitable Treatment means we all end up at the same place". I LOVE THIS, I want my NBA or NFL contract as soon as she is in office, I know I am a white guy with zero athletic talent, but I want to end up at the same place, I want my millions. Hmmm, no, I want to be an actor, even though I have no acting ability, I want to make the same money as Tom Cruise. Hmmm, no, I want to be a great singer and have Taylor Swift or Lady Gaga money! Wow, this is so hard, so many options for me to end up at the same place, for me to be a millionaire! Jay Dog

Equity is a stupid idea. It implies that dwarves ought to be NBA players and that idiots should be PhDs. Humans are different thus equity is inhumane." @Hamalisk

My question is where do the resources 'they need' come from. And let's say a one-time grand theft happens and everyone is equal. How long till inequity arises again? And again? This ignores the universal law that we reap what we sow." @ThomasB07801772

Remember that when your doctor got their degree because they didn't have to meet the same standard as a "privileged" medical student. @DonaldG81800179

If you've ever enjoyed watching the Olympics or a pro football game you can see how vile this message is. We are not all the same. Some are willing to work tirelessly for success, some are not. We never expect the same outcomes. We reward skill and diligence, we don't coddle. @TallManShort

A very nice and old idea in theory, but absolutely impossible in practice, because everyone is different, they will not reach the same peak, by the way that idea has a name: COMMUNISM. And it has destroyed my country. Cheers. @lobolobonegro5

They're already doing that with gifted students. A district in CA stopped offering algebra to 8th graders because the race and nationality of the majority of the students able to take the class was all wrong. Gotta keep all students achieving at the same low levels. @punny_girl11

SOCIALISM: Promise the government will provide for people. Give hand outs, destroy incentive, regulate business. Demonize the economic freedom (capitalism) as greed. People become dependent on government. Power held over the people by the leftist political elite. COMMUNISM. @PeterWallaceAU

That's great. I look forward to you and @joebiden giving up your shares and distributing them equitably immediately. @douglaskarr

"Equitable treatment means we all end up in the same place." So does this mean we all end up where Jeff Bezos, Bill Gates, and Warren Buffett are, or does it mean Jeff Bezos, Bill Gates, and Warren Buffett end up where we are? Peter Jacobsen

Reminds me of the "no child left behind" policy. What it should have been called is "no child gets ahead." If everyone ends up in the same place than we can only go as far as the laziest, most selfish, and egocentric person is willing to go. Josiah Hirsh

See the Twitter thread here:

https://twitter.com/KamalaHarris/status/1322963321994289154?ref_src=twsrc%5Etfw%7Ctwcamp%5Etweetembed%7Ctwterm%5E1323098176207888384%7Ctwgr%5E%7Ctwcon%5Es3_&ref_url=https%3A%2F%2Fclashdaily.com%2F2020%2F11%2Fwatch-kamala-harris-posted-a-video-about-equity-which-is-straight-up-marxism%2F